BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

BASKETBALL FACTS

1954

The annual Brigham Young University Basketball Facts book, prepared and published by the Public Relations Department is intended to assist members of the press and radio in reporting and covering the activities of BYU's basketball team for the public.

Photographs, news material, features and other data may be conveniently obtained from the Athletic Publicity Bureau, Brigham Young University.

We want your assignment to be a pleasant one while covering BYU, and we invite sportscasters and commentators to familiarize themselves with the team. On the road or at home, you are invited to attend the practice sessions and to confer with university officials at any time.

—Dave Schulthess
Athletic Publicity Director

PRESS PASS INFORMATION

Press passes to Brigham Young University's home games for members of the working press and radio may be obtained by writing to Athletic Publicity Bureau, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. Requests should be made at least one week prior to the game you wish to cover. Only those news and radio men actually working the game may obtain entry to the press box, because of limited facilities. Photographers' sideline passes are also available.

HOME GAME SERVICE

The Athletic Publicity Department will furnish all press box personnel with all necessary information for complete game coverage. A play-by-play account of the contest will be distributed at the end of each half of play. Halftime and final statistics will also be available. The shooting charts of both teams will be distributed at the conclusion of each game.

COACH STAN WATTS

The meteoric rise of Stan Watts in the basketball coaching world is one of the great assets of Brigham Young University athletics. Now entering his first year at the Cougar helm, Stan has won for himself and the University an international fame in the cage sport in the brief span of four years.

In four seasons Stan has won an NIT title, two Sky-line Conference championships, and has yet to finish below second place in league standings. Among other things, he holds several prominent positions on several boards.

He is District Seven representative on the NCAA Basketball Rules Committee, a member of the National Basketball Board, and has authored several articles of the game.

Soft-spoken and mild-mannered on and off the court, Watts has developed for BYU, not only a name for quality basketball, but an enviable reputation in sportsmanship, an earmark of Brigham Young's athletic teams.

Tabbed the "Scientist of the Hardwoods" because of his keen insight into the game, Stan keeps meticulous records and gives his boys the advantage of his penetrating observation.

Watts came to BYU as freshman coach of both football and basketball and later was named assistant basketball coach, backfield football coach and assistant director of athletics. He took over the head basketball job in 1949.

A product of Murray high school, Utah, where he was an all-around star, he enrolled at Weber Junior College, leaving for BYU in 1936. Before graduating in 1938, Stan had won two letters in football, basketball, and track besides being awarded the Y. trophy for the outstanding all-around athlete.

Following graduation, Stan coached championship teams at Millard County High School and Dixie Junior College. From Dixie he went to Jordan high as head basketball mentor in 1945. He was at Jordan for only two years, but his cage teams tied for the Big Nine championship both years.

THE COUGAR OUTLOOK — 1953-54

As every BYU basketball fan knows, the biggest problem facing Coach Stan Watts at the start of the season was one of replacement. Three of last year's key figures—forward Joe Richey, guard Harold Christensen, and center Boyd Jarman—were lost through graduation. Essentially this meant Watts was losing a high-scoring All-American, an incomparable floor captain, and a 6-5 pivot man who was ranked as one of the greatest court magicians seen in the Skyline cage circles.

To fill in for these losses, the Y. mentor will draw from his stable of capable reserves and sophomores to work with three of his returned regulars. And, of course, just how the Cougars fare this season will depend largely on how well the boys click in the vacancies.

It's quite obvious that Watts will be relying heavily on three veterans, in particular—Nick Mateljan (6-4 center), Tom Karren (6-2 forward), and Dean Larsen (6-1 forward). For the most part these three will shoulder the brunt of the Cougar attack.

Positionwise the Cougars, for the most part, appear strong. The forward line sports a balance of speed and drive with plenty of experience to draw from. Three promising centers will be backing Nick Mateljan (they average 6-5½ in this slot). But the guard line needs a bit more seasoning and punch, which may be forthcoming as the season progresses.

Team height will be better than last year's. No less than seven members of this year's team are 6-4 or better. Two of these players—Herschel "Bones" Pedersen and Dick Horsley—are 6-7 or better.

BYU's bench should be as strong or stronger than last year, if they can get a bit more experience under their belts by the start of the season. Twelve of the boys on the Watts' roster are sophomores, thus giving promise of things to come, if perhaps not this year, later.

Team speed and fast break looks sound, and should be able to hold against most Young opponents. There's plenty of scoring punch to be tapped on the starting five, not to mention good potential among the reserves.

If the astute Y. mentor can clip off the rough edges and put his usual sheen on this year's club, such as he has in past seasons, the Cats may well be a serious contender in this year's Skyline derby.

THE SKYLINE PICTURE

WYOMING—The obvious choice of all Skyline hoop critics to win the league basketball bunting for second straight year. A veteran crew back in uniform for Coach Ev Shelton. Strong defensively with plenty of scoring power and height.

UTAH STATE—Always a potential spoiler for Skyline powers, the Farmers and Coach Cec Baker are picked as this year's dark horse. Missing some key players from last year's Holiday Festival championship club, but sporting good balance.

COLORADO A & M—Rated as best A & M unit of last four years. One of the strongest benches in the league with six returning lettermen, some outstanding sophomores, and good stable of transfers. Fair height and team speed is excellent.

UTAH—Utes, under new coach Jack Gardner, were off to a slow start, but should score .500 in conference play. Redskins have no seniors, only three returning lettermen. It's Gardner's year to build with practically new team.

NEW MEXICO—Coach Woody Clements, '53's Skyline Coach of the Year, has nine lettermen back. Look for plenty of fast break. Biggest problem here is lack of overall height, but the Lobos appear well conditioned and gunning for nothing short of first division berth.

MONTANA — Although handicapped for size, the Grizzlies will have stronger bench than in recent years. Missing some of last year's scoring punch and defense through graduation, but should have good speed and another first division contender.

DENVER—Center appears to be key to success for Pioneers with several candidates battling for pivot spot. Starting five will average 6-3 or better, and plenty of scoring punch to be found in forwards Tom Rhone and Keith Patton.

GUARDS

(4) Van Burgess, 20, Jr., 6-1, 169, American Fork, Utah—An all-stater, Van has the court sense needed by floor captain . . . he hits nicely from outer court when he elects to shoot, and is one of the Y's best drivers around the basket . . . A real valuable boy to have on the squad.

(8) Dave Lewis, 19, Soph., 6-0, 180, Provo, Utah—Dave is all-around athlete . . . is devastating on the gridiron and on the diamond . . . the fastest passer on the squad . . . is at his best when zeroed in on the basket with two-handed set shots . . . will see lots action this year.

(19) Lloyd Rasmussen, 19, Soph., 6-3, 175, Monroe, Utah—a former South Sevier prep star . . . has good height and should in time work into varsity . . . has a good eye for field goals and does fairly well on the boards . . . will see only limited action this year.

(11) Doug Smoot, 19, Soph., 6-2, 175, Springville, Utah—A bespectacled red head, Doug is one of 12 sophomores listed on BYU roster . . . he has a variety of shots, and handles himself well in most departments . . . biggest need now is more experience.

GUARDS

(10) Sherman Crump, 21, Sr., 6-2, 170, Sandy, Utah—A much improved player over past seasons, is taking shape as heady floor captain for the Cats . . . he is rebounding and firing better this year . . . another Wattsman who can drive effectively for the basket. His experience is needed.

(5) Terry Tebbs, 19, Soph., 5-8, 150, Cowley, Wyoming—Another of the Y's little guys who won't be denied in the tall boys' sport . . . a real ball handler, and can collect more than his share of rebounds during a game . . . he can consistently pot field goals too . . . may be the answer for all-around guard.

(18) Morris Peterson, 20, Jr., 6-4, 178, Sandy, Utah—Tall and quiet as players go, Pete saw only limited action last year . . . will give the Cats more depth . . . could use some more seasoning to move up . . . has good height and is coming along. Should see more action this year.

(3) Ron Kump, 20 Soph., 5-8, Provo, Utah—One of the most promising little men in the league . . . an all-stater from Provo High . . . Ron's forte is speed, dribbling, and deadly push and set shots . . . needs a bit more experience to take over a starting berth with the Cats . . . but few players can handle the ball like Kump.

FORWARDS

(13) Tom Karren, 22, Sr., 6-2, 175, Alberta, Canada—This is definitely Tom's year! . . . the Canadian is a driver, and rebound artist . . . has exceptional speed . . . a real freewheeling type of player . . . Watts will be leaning heavily on this boy to come through . . . A two-year letterman.

(9) John Taylor, 22 Sr., 6-2, 180, Spanish Fork, Utah—In his final year on the varsity, Taylor is versatile . . . led the '53 scoring percentage-wise with a 43% average . . . can handle the forward slot at any calling . . . should be headed for his best year . . . A real driver.

(15) Blaine Anderson, 19, Soph., 6-4, 190, Sandy, Utah—Watts may use Anderson as center or forward . . . has made great strides in last two seasons, and even more expected this year . . . a big boy who handles himself well on the court . . . he hooks, sweeps the boards, and always in the action.

(21) Ed Pinegar, 18, Soph., 6-4, 185, Provo, Utah—Another player who starred at B.Y. High . . . will give more tall timber for the forward line . . . could use more speed, will see only limited action . . . he could develop into threat in season or two with some experience.

FORWARDS

(7) Dean Larsen, 21, Sr., 6-1, 172, Mesa, Arizona—A two-year letterman . . . a real ball hawk and defensive standout, Dean proved he can also unleash a powerful offensive . . . in '53 he hit 37% of his shots and tanked 206 points . . . will be one of the Skyline's best.

(6) Mac Madsen, 19, Soph., 6-0, 165, Boise, Idaho—Mac is another of last year's frosh stars . . . a clever point marker . . . he was one of the most consistent scorers . . . hits a good percentage of his shots . . . he will undoubtedly see plenty of action as a sophomore.

(20) Stan Collins, 20, Jr. 6-3, 178, Provo, Utah—Stan is one of players sporting some varsity experience . . . he won all-state honors at B. Y. High . . . is pretty fair shot from the corners and around the key . . . has good height. the key . . . has good height . . . saw only brief action last year.

(12) Willard Hirschi, 19, Soph., 6-1, 175, Rockville, Utah—Willy first hit the sports headlines as a prep, scoring double figures . . . a determined kind of player . . . a good scorer, Hirschi will be valuable reserve this year as a Sophomore . . . is also known as hurdler.

CENTERS

(14) Nick Mateljan, 20, Jr., 6-4, 200, Redlands, California—The key figure in this year's squad, sharpest pivot-man in Skyline . . . he picked off 292 rebounds last year . . . averaged 11.2 points a game . . . he hooks with either hand, passes well, . . . smoothest center since Mel Hutchins.

(16) Herschel "Soup Bones" Pedersen, 23, Soph., 6-7, 195, Salt Lake City, Utah—back at BYU after LDS Church mission, tour in service . . . played frosh ball for Cats . . . uses height to good advantage . . . "Soup" hooks well, knows how to handle himself on the court.

(17) Richard Horsley, 21, Soph., 6-7 $\frac{1}{2}$, 190, Salt Lake City, Utah—Rich just returned from LDS mission . . . formerly played frosh ball for U. of U. . . . the tallest man on the team, Horsley should shine on the boards . . . his height is needed by Watts . . . a top prospect.

LEARN ABOUT BYU

Located at Provo, Utah

CAMPUS—Brigham Young University is located in Provo, Utah, a city of nearly 30,000 which increases considerably during the school year. Located in the northeast section of Provo, the campus is divided into two parts. The older buildings (the lower campus) are on University Avenue, and the newer buildings are on University Hill. Campus property covers nearly 200 acres. Provo is bordered by Utah Lake on the west, 12,000-ft Mt. Timpanogos on the north, and the Wasatch mountains on the east.

FOUNDING—Established October 16, 1875, twenty-one years before Utah statehood, by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

ADMINISTRATION—Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president. The university is governed by a church board of trustees.

ENROLLMENT—Over 6,500 total last year. Co-educational.

FIELDHOUSE—The BYU fieldhouse, which is a little more than two years old, is located on Second East and Tenth North in Provo. The million-dollar structure is part of the expanding Cougar athletic plant, located just off the upper campus hill. Seating capacity is 11,100.

SCHOOL COLORS—Royal Blue and White.

TEAM NICKNAME—Cougars, Cats, etc.

CONFERENCE—Mountain States Intercollegiate Athletic Association, better known as the "Skyline Conference." The conference includes Wyoming University, Colorado A & M, Denver, University, University of Utah, Utah State Agricultural College, Montana State University, and New Mexico University. The latter joined the conference in 1951. E. L. Romney, conference commissioner, has offices in Hotel Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah.

HOME OF THE COUGARS

Literally the "hub" of Utah's basketball hotbed, the BYU's million-dollar fieldhouse is one of the West's finest athletic plants. With half of last year's games sellouts, BYU officials have seen fit to expand fieldhouse seating to nearly 11,000 capacity. Besides being the site of all the Y's home games, the spacious plant contains two other regular basketball courts, a wrestling room, boxing room, four handball and squash courts, 13 offices, a hospitality room, 2 classrooms.
